The story of the cursed text "Nilavanti granth katha":

A long time ago in a small village in Uttar Pradesh, there lived a man with his wife and a young daughter. As the daughter grew to be five years old, her mother passed away, leaving behind a little girl named Nilavanti. After his wife's death, Nilavanti's father decided to leave the village and moved to another village with his daughter. Nilavanti's father was knowledgeable in Ayurveda, the traditional Indian system of medicine, and he imparted his knowledge to Nilavanti as well. Nilavanti had a unique ability – she could understand the language of plants, animals, and birds. She had a deep connection with nature. As time went on, Nilavanti's father realized that she possessed a special gift. She could communicate with animals and understand the language of nature. This ability amazed everyone in the village and gained her a reputation as a healer and a wise person. However, the story takes a darker turn. Nilavanti's special abilities attracted the attention of a malevolent spirit, a Yakshini (a female supernatural being in Indian folklore). This Yakshini was cursed and sought to spread suffering and death. She decided to use Nilavanti's gift to achieve her sinister goals. The Yakshini, in the guise of a wise sage, approached Nilavanti and offered her a sacred text called "Nilavanti Granth."
