

What To Do When Your Car Breaks Down

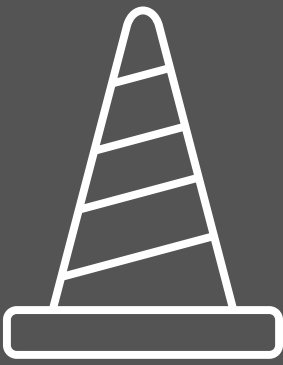

Don't panic. Let your passengers get out of your car.

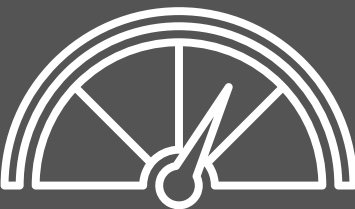

Turn on your wheels from the road.

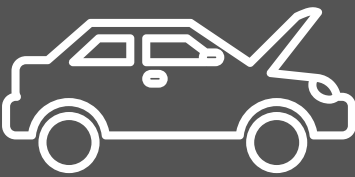

Turn on your hazard lights, letting other drivers know you are in an emergency.

Place a safety triangle behind your car.

Check the machine indicator lamps, do they show any abnormality?

Open your car hood to visually check your machine.

Otherwise, call the nearest car roadside assistance service.